KEARNEY UNDISMAYED.

DENOUNCING BUMMERS AND BLOCKHEADS. HE COMPARES HIMSELF TO PATRICE HENRY AND THOMAS JEFFERSON.

THOMAS JEFFERSON.

Denis Kearney and his Sand-Lot friend. Stephen Maybell, spent a quiet day yesterday, principally entertaining friends who called, and in a vain endeavor to keep cool in their room at the Astor House. They were found in the afternoon by a Tribune reporter busily engaged in preparing the speeches they propose to deliver at the openair mass-meeting to be held in Union Square on Thursday evening. In speaking of the action of the Central Labor Union, which refused to grant him the privilege of the floor on Kuday afternoon after inviting him to speak, Mr. Kearney said:

refused to grant him the privilege of the floor on Sunday afternoon after inviting him to speak, Mr. Kearney said:

"I've experienced the same kind of treatment for the last seven years from such pismires, and it don't bother me a bit. The Central Labor Union don't represent anybody. The majority of the so-called delegates are a lot of bunomers who haven't an idea above their miserable little salaries as presidents and secretaries of unions. They are leeches who are living on the laborers, and are thoroughly wrapped up in their own gross stupidity and selfishness. They are stumbling-blocks in the way of progress, and the presence of a man of brains and action frightens them. I regard them a good deal in the same 'ght that a locomotive would a little dog barking at it from the side of the track. I go on and attend to my business without paying any attendion to them. I've got no favors to ask of these men. I represent a principle and I don't propose to stop this agitation until I have accomplished my purpose. At that meeting yesterday some idiot wanted to know what labor club I represented, and where my credentials were. Did they think that Patrick Henry or Thomas Jefferson or any other great reformer waited until they got credentials from some dirty little labor club before they began their work of reform! If they had there would have been mighty little reforming done. We had the same irouble in the Chinese fight. These little labor clubs, so-called, were eternally cropping up and passing 'resolutions till we killed them. We will have to do the same now. We started the war cry, 'The Chinese must go,' and in less than four years they went. We now propose to start the cry that 'Slave wages must go,' and in less than four years they went meeting yesterday who accompanied me to the upper hall. I took away all but a few tricksters and fellows who are jealous of me, and I can do it every time."

Referring to the way he was treated at Chicago the same in the control of me, and I can do it every time."

the meeting yesterday who accompanied me to tricksters and fellows who are jealous of me, and I can do it every time."

Reterring to the way he was treated at Chicago Mr. Kearney said: "They were afraid to let me into the convention. To give you an idea as to what kind of men the convention represented I'll refer you to the recent report of the California Railroad Commission. In that report it is stated under oath that the secretary of the California State Auti-Monopoly League went to a prominent officer of the Central Pacific Railroad and demanded special rates for the firm of which he was a member, saying: 'I must have what I demanded of fight. Not a man knows I'm here this morning. You have it in your power to destroy the nucleus of the new party. I am only working for myself.' Thurber and the whole gang are tarred with the same stick."

Mr. Kearney said that he and Maybell would start on Friday night for Boston, where he will speak in Faneuil Hall. He will then make a two weeks' tour of the New-England towns, speaking in various places. On his return to New-York he will call another meeting and endeavor to effect an organization. "By the way," said he as the reporter was about to go, "I want to call your attention to a curious coincidence. When I came East in 1878, Henry Ward Beecher started West. Now it is the same section of the country for both of us."

"I guess he's gone to San Francisco to capture the Sand Lots," put in Maybell.

"He won't succeed in that," said Kearney. The Sand Lots will never subscribe to the doctrine of a dollar a day on bread and water."

Leading members of the Central Labor Union say that after sleeping over the matter they are perfectly satisfied at the action taken at Sunday's meeting in the Kearney mater. There are good grounds, they say, for the suspicion that Kearney has soid out to the railroad interest, and they wish the union to have nothing whatever to do with him as a body. What individual members may do rests with themselves. They attach very little importance to his n

P. J. McGUIRE DEFENDS HIMSELF.

To the Editor of The Tribune.

Sir: For certain malicious reasons—very evident—
Denis Kearney charges that I, along with others, waited on him and invited him to speak at the Central Labor Union yesterday. The facts are: In company with Jeremiah Murphy, late of the Freight Handlers, I waited on Kearney to ascertain his views, etc. While we were present with others, Maithew Magnire, sceretary of the Central Labor Union, strolled in and invited Kearney to attend the Central Labor Union. Matthew Magnire stated that, insamuch as the meetings of the Central Labor Union were public, Kearney would be welcome as a spectator, and at the same time it might be possible to get him a hearing.
This proves that, while I was present, I was not the Magnire who invited him. Of course, Kearney is anxious to vent his spicen against me for the part I took against him. I am a new delegate to the Central Labor Union, but hereafter I propose to see that that body is conducted far differently from what it has been.

PILGRIMAGE OF KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.

PILGRIMAGE OF KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.

Columbian Commandery, No. 1, Knights Templar, of this city, recently abandoned a contemplated pilgrimage to the Triennial Conclave of Knights to be held in San Fraucisco next month. In a circular the Commandery assigned as a reason that assurance had not been given the Knights that they would be exempt from the extortions that so frequently attend large gatherings. The Triennial Conclave replied to this circular saying that their conclusions were unwarranted, that there would be plenty of room for visitors, and that a hotel had been reserved for the Columbian Commandery. The original project having been given up, it was proposed to make a party of such of the Knights Templar of the State who wished to attend the Triennial Conclave of the Grand Encampment. The arrangements for this party were put in the hands of James McGee, of No. 64 Duane-st., and they are now nearly completed. The company will be known as the New-York State Knights Templar Battalion, and will consist of members of the various commanderies in New-York State, many of the New-England States. New-Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Mr. McGee in a conversation with a Tribune reporter said that the party would number not less than seventy-five Knights and their wives, and would perhaps reach more than a hundred. "The original project," said Mr. McGee, "placed the number who would make the trip at 250, but the publication of the circular will of course deter a great many from going who otherwise would have gone. I have secured three cars for our party so far, and will be able to obtain more if they are needed."

John S. Bartlett, Graad Commander of the State, will be in command of the battalion and Mr. McGee.

needed."

John S. Bartlett, Graad Commander of the State, will be in command of the battalion and Mr. McGice will be his aide. It will leave New-York Tuesday, August 7, at 8 a.m., by the Eric Hallway, and arrive in Chicago the next morning at the same hour. It will arrive in San Francisco on Thursday, August 16, occupying nine days in the trip and permitting a stop at various points of interest along the route. A week will be spent in San Francisco to permit attendance on the exercises of the Grand Commandery and visits to the wonders of California, and the party will arrive in New-York on its return on September 1.

SEEKING A NEW TRIAL FOR HOVEY.

Edward Hovey, who is sentenced to be hanged on July 27 for the murder of Mrs. Fauny Vermilyea, his sister-in-law, was arraigned in the Supreme Contt. Chambers, yesterday, on a writ of habeas corons applied for by his counsel on the ground of newly discovered evidence. He was represented by William F. Kintzing and Thomas F. Grady. Mr. Kintzing read an affidavit, sworn to by himself, in which he averred that he had discovered new evidence which, if presented properly to the Court, would prevent a conviction of murder in the first degree. Dr. Hardy, the city physician, in an affidavit stated that on April 27, 1882, he was called upon to attend Hovey, whom he found suffering from alcoholism and want of opium, to which he was addicted. He did not think him responsible for his actions. He treated him for two weeks, the same symptoms continuing. An affidavit was also made by Policenan Thomas Baker, who arrested Hovey a week before the murder on a charge of intoxication. Keeper George La Pay, of the Jefferson Market Prison, stated that at that time Hovey was suffering from alcoholism and nervous prostration, and when discharged was hardly responsible for his actions. While in the jail he had to be placed in a strait-jacket to keep him from doing himself bodily harm.

Judge Donohue said that on the trial the prisoner gave testimouy which, it was asserted now, he was not in a fit condition to give, from his nervous and prostrated condition. Senator Grady contended that Mr. Hardy's affidavit supported the prisoner, who on his trial swore that his memory was noor and that he could not testify to actual facts. Assistant District-Attorpeys Fellows and Vincent said that the testimony offered was merely eumulative. Judge Donohue reserved his decision until to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock. THE INJURIES TO THE MAIN. A diver was sent down yesterday to ascertain it the shaft of the North German Lloyd steamship Main had been broken in the accident which be-fell her on Saturday. He reported that he thought that the shaft was not broken although he could not tell positively. He was of the opinion that the screw had been loosened. The unloading of the cargo was continued, and to-day the steamship will be placed in the dry-dock, and the extent of her injuries will then be definitely ascertained. Oelrichs & Co. received word from the Bremen office yester-day that if necessary a new shaft should be put in on this side of the water.

THE CIGARMAKERS' STRIKE.

A GENERAL LOCK-OUT ORDERED. THE MANUFACTURERS' UNION SETTING ITSELF UP AGAINST THE WORKERS.

The committee of the Cigar Manufacturers' Union appointed to investigate the strike in the factory of S. Ottenberg & Brothers has decided that there are no just grounds for a strike and that unless the men return to work before to-morrow a general lock-out will be codered. A notice to the effect that unless the men returned to work before, the factories will be closed on Wednesday and remain closed until the strike in S. Ottenberg & Brothers' shop is adjusted, has been posted in all the shops represented in the union. Under the rules of the association the notice has to be posted three days before the lock-out. The Cigar-Makers Progressive Union, which is responsible for the strike at Ottenberg's was informed of the action of the committee yesterday.

the rules of the association the notice has to be posted three days before the leck-out. The Cigar-Makers Progressive Union, which is responsible for the strike at Ottenberg's was informed of the action of the committee yesterday.

Frederick Haller, corresponding secretary of the Progressive Union, said: "The feeling in our union is manimously in favor of standing out against the 'scabs' employed by Ottenberg. Ever since the Cigar Manufacturers' Union was established we have felt that a contest was inevitable. We are glad that it has come now, for the time could certainly not be more favorable for us. We have money enough in our treasury to carry every member of the union for at least two months without asking for outside contributions, and even should all the shops represented in the Manufacturers' Union shut down, there are still several of the largest manufacturers in the city who are not represented and who will not join them. A large number of our men can get employment in these shops. We haven't the slightest doubt but that the contest will end in our favor, though we realize that it will be a bitter fight on both sides, for the existence of the two organizations is at stake. The busy season is coming on, and unless these union frms are prepared to supply the demand for their goods their trade will leave them."

S. Jacoby, one of the committee which investigated the strike in behalf of the manufacturers said: "This is not a question of wages. The difficulty originated in a dispute about the pay day. Our committee decided that the men were in the right in that matter, and ordered Ottenberg & Brothers to stick to the old day. The men then refused to work unless some members of a rival union were discharged. The committee regarded this action as arbitrary and dictatorial on the part of the Progressive Union, and resolved not to submit to it. Under our articles of agreement, if the committee decide a strike in one shop unwarranted, all of us are compelled to shut down until it is arranged, although we have pr

OTHER LABOR MOVEMENTS.

At a meeting of the Short-Hour League last evening it was announced by the committee that four shops had agreed to close at 11 clock on Saturdays without reducing the amount of compensation. Many of the employers were inclined to regard the action favorably, the committee said, and if the matter was properly directed a few years would see it an established directed a few years would see it an established custom.

The shoemakers held a stormy meeting at American Hall, No. 193 Bowery, last night. Much of the time was occupied in discussing whether a strike should be made in those shops where the rate of compensation has been reduced, but no decision was reached.

The men employed in the box factory of Orr, Fowler & Co. at West and Jane-sts., Greenboint, who belong to the Packing Box Sawyers' Union, some sixty in number, struck for higher wages yesterday, owing to a recent reduction. Mr. Orr said that the union tried to dictate terms to the firm, and he had secured all the non-union men he could find work for, and expected no further difficulty.

THE KILLING OF CHRISTOPHER MOORE. Engene Moulle, the barkeeper who shot and killed Christopher Moore Suuday night at Thirdave, and Thirty-fourth-st., was brought before Coroner Merkle yesterday morning. Moore, he said, was in Stacom's drinking-place 'Sunday afternoon drinking, and became angry because he was not treated with liquor. He threatened Moulle with harm and several of the latter's friends advised him to beware of Moore, as he was a dangerous man. On leaving the place, therefore, he took the pistol with him, and when Moore jumped upon him and struck him, he shot him. Clifton Maurice, who was with Moulle at the time of the shooting, confirmed the statement that it was done in self-defence Moulle was committed to the Tombs by Curoner Merkle and the inquest will be held on Thursday. Captain Clinchy, of the Eighteenth precinct, has charge of the case, and Detectives Garrow and Corey, of Inspector Byrnes's staff, were detailed to make a further investigation. Moulle bears a peaceable character and has a wife and three children at No. 475. Third-ave. Moore is well known in the neighborhood where he met his death. He hadbeen a gambler and owned several gambling-places in the city at different times. Offiate he had failed in all his ventures, and for several weeks had been acting as conductor on a Third-ave. street car. He was known as a man who was always quarrelsome when in his cups. Some 'years ago in a fight a man put the muzzle of his revolver in Moore's mouth and fired. 'The bullet passed out of the back of Moore's neck and he recovered. He was regarded as daring and fearless, and once at a fire in Third-ave., he entered the burning house when no one else dared, carried an old woman from the top floor to the roof and saved three children by lowering them to this ground by a rope, escaping himself with great difficulty.

THE MOUNT VERNON SHOOTING.

THE MOUNT VERNON SHOOTING.

THE MOUNT VERNON SHOOTING.

The shooting of "Barney" O'Hanlon at Mount Vernon on Sunday was a topic of general conversation yesterday, not only in the village, but in most of the adjacent towns where he has acquired considerable notoriety. Mrs. Kenny, in whose defense O'Hanlon is supposed to have been shot, has made a number of contradictory statements about the affair, and a suspicion is gaining that she does not tell all she knows. To Officer Sternhagen she described the would-be assassin on Sunday as a man with dark hair and whiskers or mustache; and yesterday she said he had a light complexion and light hair. Sunday she said also that her husband was absent at the time of the attack on the house; yesterday she stated that he was at home, but so drunk that he did not know what was going on. Watchman Guion, however, saw Peter Kenny, the husband, of Saturday between 10 and 11 p. m.; he appeared excited and remarked that "he would have to put a head on somebody before long." At a later hour Kenny and a man hamed Dougherty were seen together in the neighborhood, and an impression prevails among those best acquainted with the persons involved in the affair that Kenny is jealous of O'Hanlon's influence over Mrs. Kenny, and that he was the assailant concerning whom Mrs. Kenny tells mixed stories.

AN ITALIAN SWINDLED.

Francisco Motta, a middle-aged Italiau, on Sunday went into the office of John Fitzpatrick, at No. 32 Greenwich-st., and said he wished to purchase a steamship passage ticket for Italy. There were two or three men in the place, and one of them gave him what he said was a ticket for an Italian port, for which Motta gave $25 in gold. It proved to be merely a business card of Fitzpatrick. Mayor's Marshal McDermott summoned Fitzpatrick to appear before the Mayor, and an examination was begun yesterday. Motta declared that Fitzpatrick was the one who sold him the ticket. Fitzpatrick denied that he sold the ticket, and said that he was absent at Rockaway at the time the swindle was perpetrated. Mrs. Fitzpatrick insisted that the man who probably swindled the Italian was one who occasionally came into her husband's place of business. Fitzpatrick was given until noon to-day to produce the swindler.

PAYING THE WESTERN UNION DIVIDEND. PAYING THE WESTERN UNION DIVIDEND.

The Mercantile Trust Company began yesterday the payment of the quarterly dividend of 1% percent on the capital stock of the Western Union Telegraph Company. The payment is made for the account of Jay Gould, to whom the stockholders assign their rights to the dividend, because of the legal restraint imposed on the telegraph company Nearly one-half of the dividend, which amounts to $1,400,000, was paid. It was rumored in Wall Street last week that some of the stockholders intended to obstruct the payment, but no interruption was made. President Fitzgerald, of the Mercantile Trust Company, said that he knew of no reason why Mr. Gould should not pay the dividend if he chose to do so. The Trust Company had received from him the money with which to buy the dividend from the stockholders.

COLLISION WITH THE JERSHY CITY.

DECISION OF THE LOCAL INSPECTORS AS TO THE COLLISION WITH THE JERSHY CITY.

The Local Inspectors of Steam Vessels yesterday rendered a decision fixing the responsibility for the collision between Pierre Lorillard's yacht Radha and the ferry-boat Jersey City, which occurred in the North River on June 23. Mr. Lorillard and some of those who were on his yacht testified for the captain of the Radha, and some of the passengers on the ferry-boat also gave evidence. The Inspectors in their decision say:

We have made a careful review of the testimony in this case and we have concluded that the blame of the collision rests entirely with the master of the Radha. He violated Rule 1 of the rules and regulations. Though the duty of each pilot is clearly defined in the rule referred to, the captain of the Radha admits that he went contrary to its instructions. He has also stated in evidence that there was nothing to have prevented his going on either side of the Jersey City. Though none of the witnesses in behalf of the Radha heard the whistles blown from the Jersey City, it does not prove that none were blown, for all her witnesses were positive that the Jersey City blew two separate, single whistles before the Radha blew any whistles to the ferry-boat, and such being the case the Jersey City was in the right. The master of the Radha also violated Rule 21 of Section 4,233 Revised Statutes, in not stopping and reversing before he did, as the nature of his testimony shows that a collision was imminent; yet he did not stop and back his boat until within one length of his vessel (150 feet) from the ferry-boat, nor did he at any time ring a bell to reverse the yacht's engine, though her engine was atarted backing by her engineer of his own motion, because he saw the impending danger. The Radha was going up the river at the rate of 112 knots an hour with a flood tide, and there could have been but very little diminution in her head way when they collided. For the want of proper judgment and the unskilfulness displayed on the par

WEIGHTY MATTERS BEFORE LOONG YEE TONG—TOM LEE'S REAPPOINTMENT.
As the first drops of Sunday's rain-storm traced
Oriental designs on the pavement of Mott-st, sixteen bedraggied Chinamen dedged into the decorway of the house No. 18, where Wing Fenng regaled them with preserved ginger and sugarless tea. But the mysterions sixteen did not assemble to discuss such trilling things as ginger and tea, but to hold a meeting of the Loong Yee Tong (Society for Mutual Protection) and to decide upon some means by which they could be saved from the insatrable demands of Tom Lee. Had the number been greater than sixteen there would have been discord, so admittance was wisely refused to Tom Lee and Wong Ching Foo. If there was any heated decussion, the sounds of it did not reach the ear of a policeman who was wandering aimlessly about ontside. After several hours of silence the Loone Yee Tong arose and adjourned.

When a Tribunk reporter entered Mott-st, yesterday to learn the outcome of the meeting he was confronted at all points with a strong and impenetrable silence.

Wing Ferna smiled knowingly and said:
"No sabee."
"Why don't you understand?"
"Me no wantee to 'lundersan."
The same answer was given by every Chinaman the reporter addressed until Chung Hi, agroceryman who seemed to be well acquainted with the secrets of his neighbors, volunteered information. Mr. Hi was splitting green peas and stringing them on a piece of fine white wire. He said that he had not been at the meeting, but he understood from one of his friends that the society intended to commence proceedings against Mr. Foo for alleged slanders in his newspaper, and also to determine Tom Lee's anthority to collect "dues" from opium "joints" and gambling houses. "You see." continued Mr. Hi, "these Chinamen are jealous of the few among them who speak good English, because they are afraid we will take advantage of them. Tom Lee is one of the envied ones. Why, in China, when one man becomes a little more intelligent than the others, they cut his head off. The meeting last night was very unsatisfactory to the society, because the members of it could not decide whicher it would be advisable to petition the Sherifi to reappoint Tom Lee as deputy. Lee wished them to do so, and there will be little peace in Mott st. until it is done. At present the odds are about three to one against Lee, but he has become too much of a Yankee to accept defeat. The meeting was adjourned without date. Tom Lee has too much influence among the police to fear the opposition of his countrymen."

GRACE CHURCH BELLS.

The carillon or chime of bells belonging to Grace Church has been lowered to the ground, and the ten bells are now picturesquely arranged in the little space inclosed by railings south of the church, where they are examined by loungers in Broadway with much interest. The chime was rung for the first time on Easter Sunday, 1872, and the parishioners were delighted with the fine musical tone. But as the years passed on, suspicions stole into the minds of the vestrymen, the wardens and the sexton. They began to fear that the chime was destroying the stability of the tower. Investigations were begun which proved that the upper part of the tower was not strong enough to resist the vibrating shocks. It was decided to remove the perforated spire, to take down the bells, and to remove the tower stone by stone down to the first string course. This is being done. The louvers on the south side were taken out, the bells were lowered, and the workman are beginning to detach the stones of the tower stone by stone down to the first string course. This is being done. The louvers on the south side were taken out, the bells were lowered, and the workmen are beginning to detach the stones of the tower, course by course. Then the upper part of the tower will be rebuilt, with iron girders and tie rods at needed places, so that the vibratory shocks will be powerless to do damage, and the wooden spire will be replaced by one of stone.

Of the ten bells, all but No. 1, the big bell (weighing 2,855 pounds) were methorial gifts. No. 2, next in size to the "Big Un," was given by Miss Wolfe in memory of her father, John David Woife, who had been Senior Warden of Grace Church. No. 3 was given by Miss Barclay in nemory of her father, George Barclay, some time Warden. No. 4 was a memorial gift of two cousins, Edward Renshaw Jones and Edward Jones. No. 5 was given by John A. McCollom in memory of his wife. No.6 was given by Mrs. Roberts in memory of her son William Seward Roberts. No. 7 was given by the parents of Julian Broome Livingstone in affectionale memory of their child. No. 8 was the gift of Mrs. Schermerhorn. No. 9 was a memorial of Alfred H. Easton given by his widow. No. 10, the "Baby Bell," was the gift of Miss Sarah Marsh Auchincless.

RETURN OF MAYOR EDSON.

Mayor Edson returned to the city yesterday after an absence of eight days. Have is sun-browned and looks much improved by his trip. In company with his brother in-law, Colonel E. T. Wood, the son of the latter, and a few friends, the Mayor spent a week at Moose Lake, in the Adirondacks. The party camped out, sleeping on pine boughs, in a shanty roofed with birch-bark.

"It was a relief to me to get away from the politicians and newspaper men," said Mr. Edson with a laugh. "There were no daily newspapers to be had, and telegrams could only reach me at an expense of five or six dollars each. Consequently I was not troubled with many of the latter. I thoroughly enjoyed the trip, and alept well and fished during the day. For a relief from the city with its bustle and cares, there is nothing like it."

"Are many changes contemplated in the Controller's Office?" was asked.

"The matter has been talked of. You know the Controller has gone away for a week to obtain needed rest. When he returns the matter will again receive consideration. Nothing positive has been determined on. The Finance Department needs reorganization. That is evident."

"Has the Controller at any time tradered his resignation or intimated that he would do so?"

"No. I have received no such intimation."

"What do you think of the report of the Aldermen's Committee?"

"It has developed nothing new."

"It has developed nothing new."

CONTROLLER'S OFFICE INVESTIGATION. A committee has been appointed by the Grand Jury to take charge of the investigation which it is proposed to make into the affairs of the Controller's office. This committee-consisting of Charles S. Smith, of No. 115 Worth-st.: Frederick W. Rhinelander, of No. 62 Cedar-st., and S. W. Comstock, of No. 216 Greenwish-st., the foreman of the Grand Jury-will visit the presidents of the Importers and Traders', the Park and the Fourth National banks and ask them to select three expert book-keepers. These bookkeepers will be asked to examine the books of the Controller's office and make a report concerning the methods now in use, and to suggest any improvements that they may think wise. The committee of the Grand Jury will have charge of the details of the investigation. A full meeting of the Grand Jury will be held when the experts have finished their examination.

The bank presidents have taken no action in regard to the selection of the expert accountants although they express their willingness to comply with the request of the Grand Jury. It is probable that a conference between the presidents will be held in a few days, but no plan had been arranged vesterday. President Baldwin, of the Fourth National Bank, said that he would be giad to make a personal examination of the accounts of the Controller's Office before taking any action but that he could not afford the time to do so. It was not improbable, however, that some preliminary examination would be made. "It is impossible to investigate a book," Mr. Baldwin added, "if it happens that the book you are to examine is missing, or to say whether a certain coupon has been paid twice if the coupon cannot be found. It seems necessary that we should know what the accountants will have to investigate before we can select them or suggest a method of inquiry." An officer of another bank said that he was receiving applications from accountants every hour.
